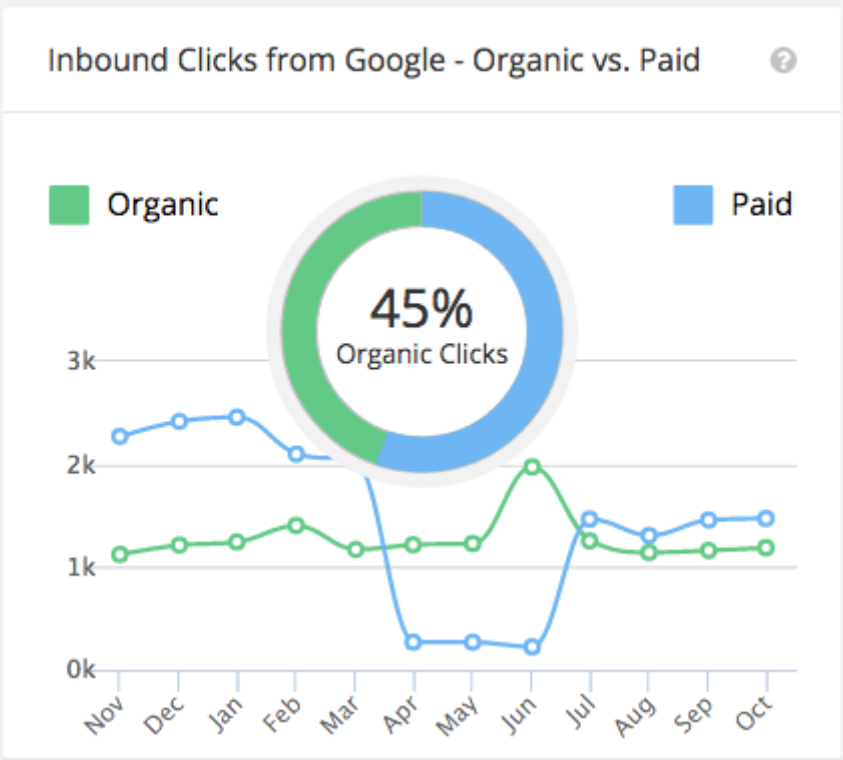
Hey Harry,

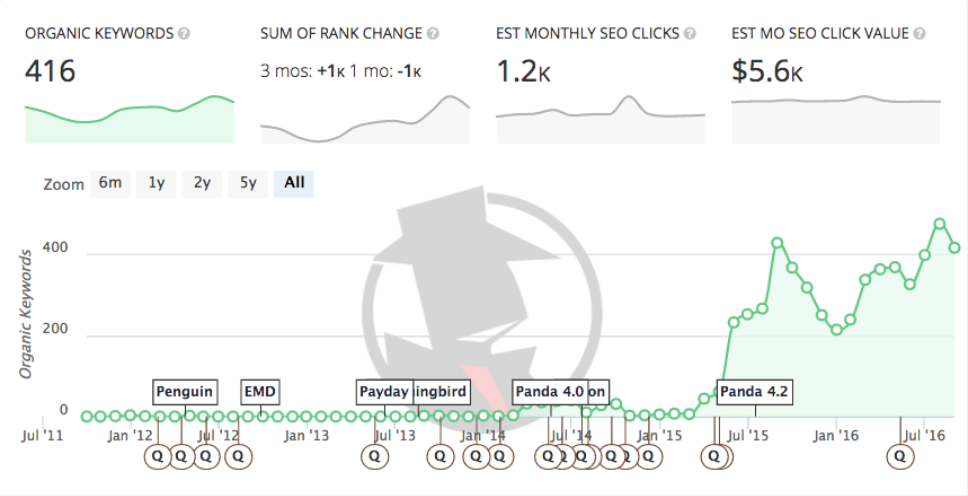
I dove deep into your brand trying to get a grasp on everything you do, and where I can help. I'll start with an unbiased audit of your current activities for SEO and PPC, then we'll focus on social--followed up with a review of the funnel you wanted me to inspect.

Your overall site traffic: You have 55% of your traffic coming from PPC, which is pay per click aka paid traffic (Google, Facebook, Youtube Pre-roll, etc). This drew my interest because it means you have significant room for improvement with the ability to acquire traffic through both SEO & PPC efforts.

It's also important to point out the numbers below are from your 1 year averages of traffic volume from each source.

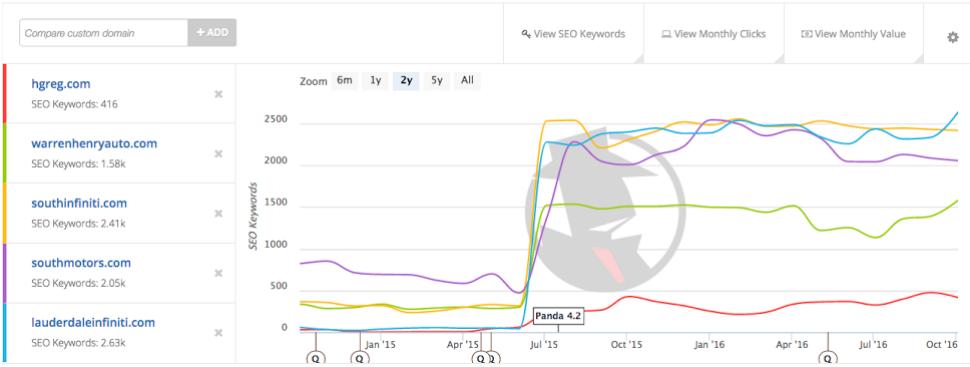


Let's look closer at the history of your organic traffic (SEO): You're organic traffic has been up-trending! That's awesome to see. I want to see you vs some of the competitors using the same keywords though to compare keyword volume to traffic volume and see where you guys are ranking.

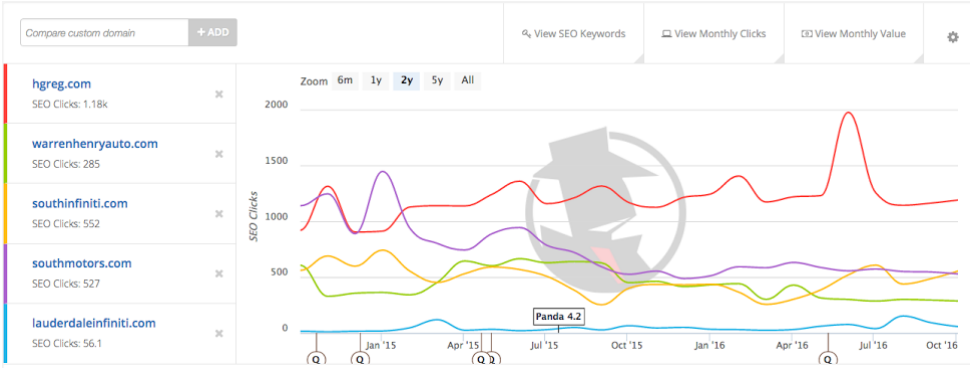


Compared to your competitors: WOW! This is great to see, you have less keywords but have more clicks to similar webpages that are using the same keywords you are. Take a look at the webpages we're comparing you to here, let me know if we use other web pages who might be in your vision as a competitor more than these listed.

Keyword volume:

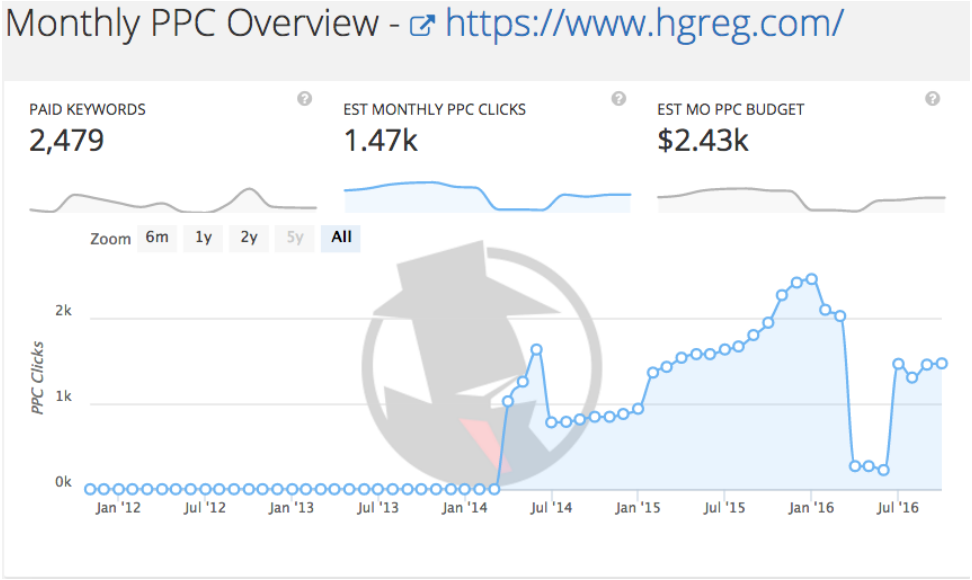


Click Volume:



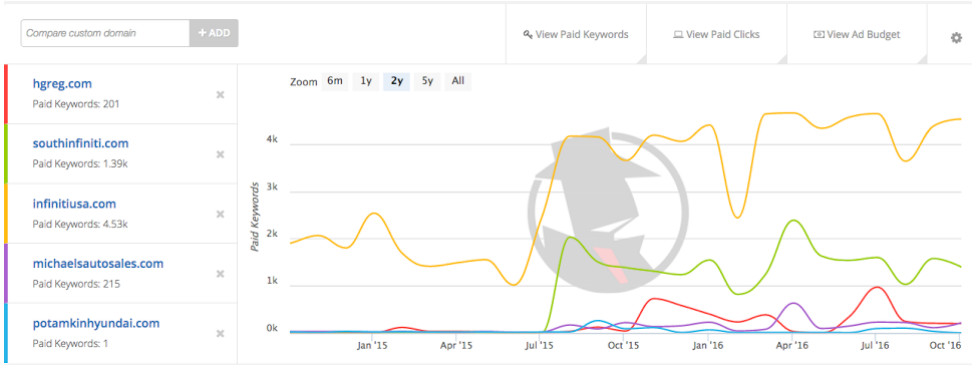
Let's take a look at PPC now: From a 30,000 ft view it appears you guys are using PPC for ~1,500 clicks per month. What's your conversion on this #?

It's great to see you've been testing--had growth and kept pushing. Interested to here what happened in what looks like march-june in 16! Glad to see your back in the action. Great room for improvement here, let's look at competitors to make sure we approach adding to volume of PPC traffic in a logical way.



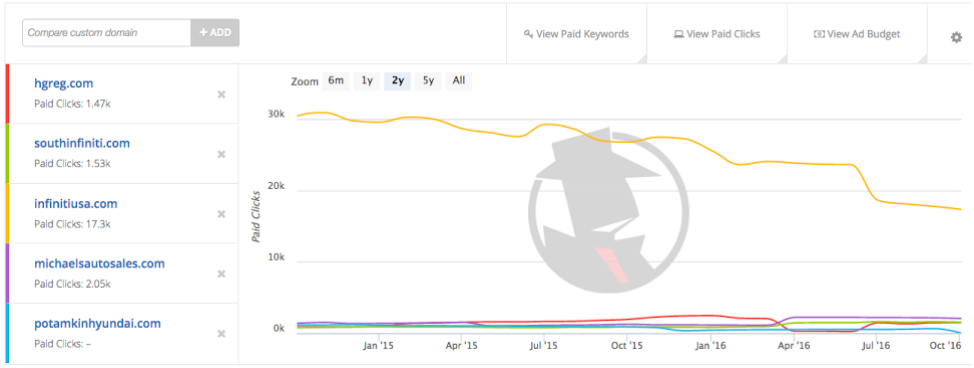
This graph represents the amount of keywords your top 4 competitors are going after: Here we see that there are 2 competitors that the tool has determined to be competitors based on these websites targeting similar or exact keywords you are.

This represents that there are ~4,000 keywords you could be targeting (if applicable, and more competitors we can compare your site to, the better--so please send any you believe are competitors over.) Some keywords bring more traffic than others, but in most cases for PPC--the more keywords the more traffic a site receives. Let's see if that hold true here.

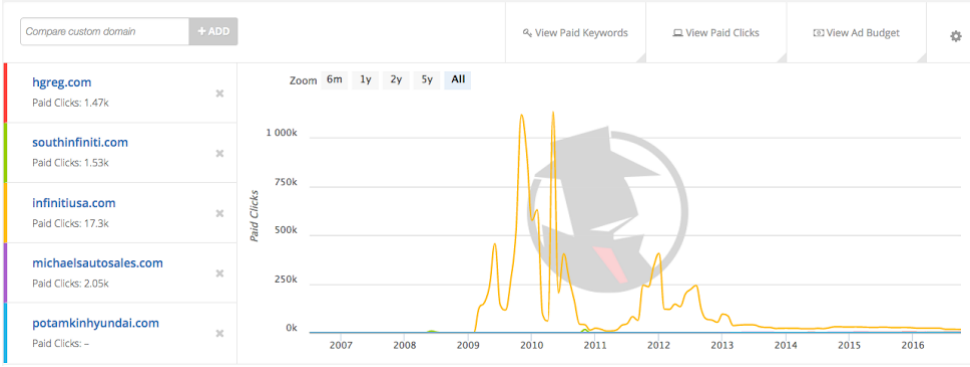


Those same competitors traffic volume for keywords graphed above: YES! This is money, it shows that the more keywords using in this market, the more traffic a site would receive. This tool allows us to collect all of the keywords being used, an estimated search volume for each of those keywords, and the recommended CPC (cost per click).

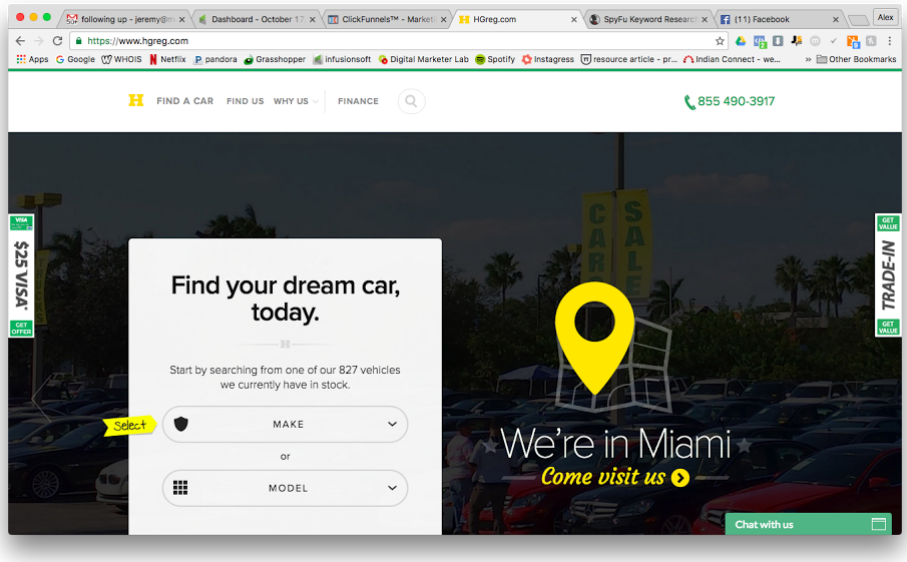
That means that any competitors you have your eyes on, we can research their exact PPC strategy, take their best keywords and all create the best possible PPC strategy that is guaranteed to outperform everybody else! WOO!!



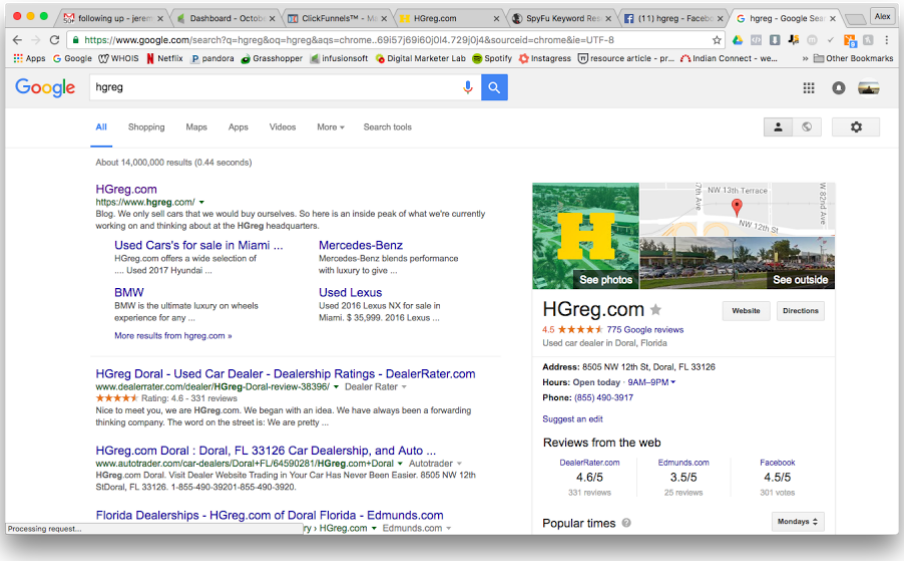
We can also see who's been in the PPC game the longest and what has their success been taking these marketing actions: wow, so there is a very long term competitor, infinitiusa.com has been doing this a while, good to know!



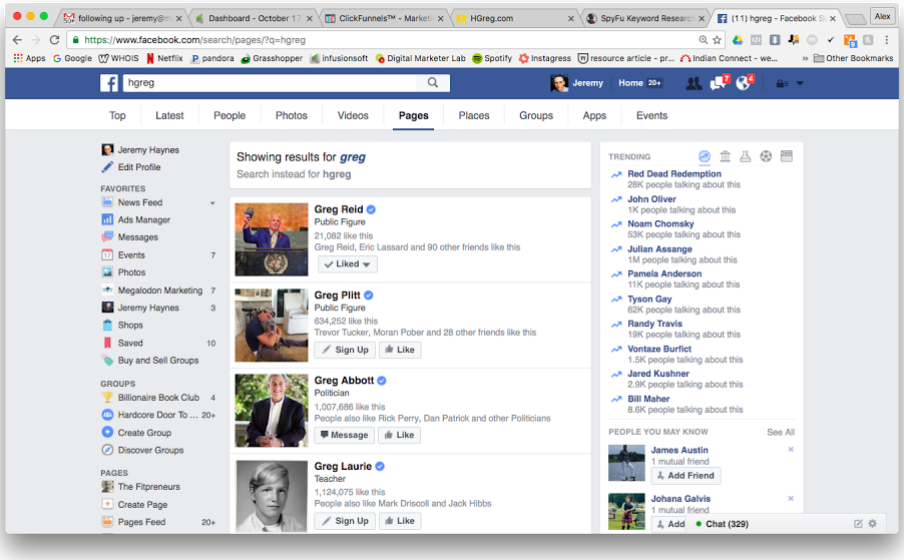
I'd like to transition to your landing page now. I love it!! Would love to know conversion rates and am here to help with any marketing automation needs you may have after we dive deeper on the subject for comprehension on my end. I'll set a real time retargeting system that will distribute the users information directly to all social channels and Google display targeting to follow up with non-transactional leads right away.

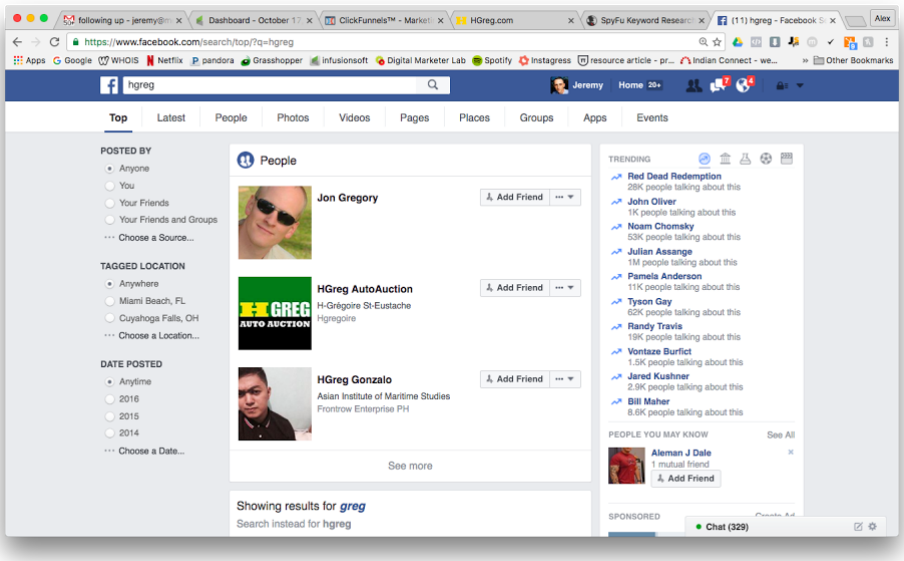


Here's what I found when googling you guys: Great results, you guys are doing awesome at SEO for your brand. I'd be interested to hear which keywords you're going after to see if my SEO team could help boost your results in targeted, desired areas of opportunity.

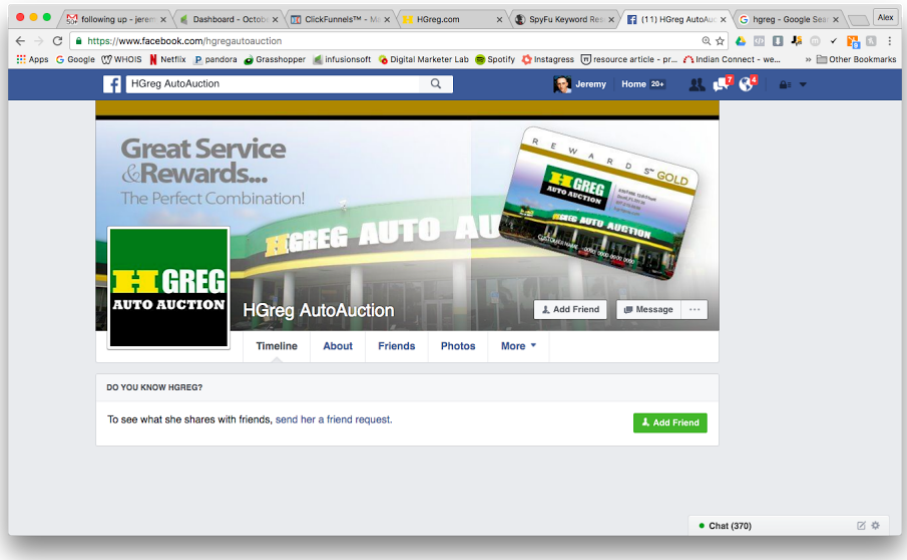


Let's take a look at your social: Here's what I found when searching you on Facebook.

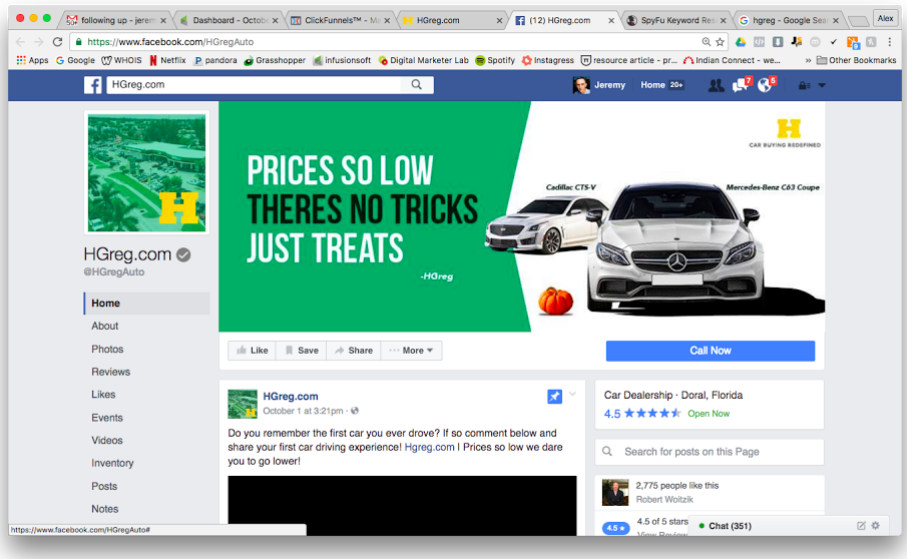




I couldn't tell if you were the HGreg auto profile above, so I clicked on it and this is what I saw as a customer when searching:



I then went back to your website, and found your Facebook page: Like the style! Are you guys running any paid media campaigns (content engagement campaigns) or any lead campaigns? If so, how's it working for you guys?



I checked your twitter and instagram, they look great! Question/pro tip for you on instagram, are you using https://instagress.com yet? Incredible tool to boost followers and engagement across your instagram account(s).

All in all, I can help you a ton. I attached some internal documents I give out to clients to provide clarity on our package structures, what's offered, and our processes/systems to result.
